Morril H. Harriman, Jr.

Mitchell Williams regularly represents energy and utility clients in matters of business transactions, regulatory issues and resolution of disputes. Our team has decades of experience working in the field of public utility law.

We represent public utilities before the Arkansas Public Service Commission, the Arkansas General Assembly, the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, Congress and state and federal courts and assist clients in complying with the statutes and regulations applicable to public service corporations. We advise energy and utility clients in matters of:

- Compliance with regulatory rulings and regulations
- Certification proceedings
- Rate cases
- Transmission and distribution utilities
- Development of rate case applications and supporting testimony
- Representation at rate case proceedings and other hearings
- Applications for certificates of convenience and necessity
- Utility service contracts
- Right-of-way easements
